

The Artists Hand Gallery

Second Annual

Photography Show 2018

An art exhibition that features recent works of local and regional photographers in Pennsylvania. The show seeks to promote photography as an artform in all formats.

Juror: Larry Roberts

Having a grandfather who worked in a New York camera store might have been the seed that began the career in photography of Larry Roberts – or it might have been having a father who had his own darkroom back in the 1930s. Whatever the case, Larry Roberts began taking photos at the age of 6, progressed to his first photo studio job at 14, and held his first newspaper job at 15, all of which pointed the way to a career spanning 50 years covering news. Roberts now has taken a turn into the art world by creating “Digital Splash,” a way to adding fanciful color to black and white images with a computer and digital printer.

Mr. Roberts holds degrees from Kent State and Ohio State universities and has been employed by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, Toledo Blade, Agence France-Presse, Haifa University, and the Troy, NY, Times-Record, in addition to his freelance work.

Married to Sherri Roberts, a fabric artist, Mr. Roberts is the father of three grown children.
